FIRST HEALTHCARE COMPLIANCE LEADS WITH SUBJECT MATTER EXPERTISE

Thought Leadership and Compliance Knowledge Distinctive in Market

Wilmington, DE—May 3, 2017. The leadership team at First Healthcare Compliance (<http://www.1sthcc.com>) is unique in the field of healthcare compliance management. The team comprised of attorneys and a physician specializing in compliance management, assist clients throughout the United States with their expertise. Education is a core tenet of the company with the goal of providing healthcare professionals the timely information and resources they require to effectively manage a compliance program while maintaining patient care as the priority.

Staying abreast of the myriad of compliance rules and regulations is simplified with excellent educational content. As such, clients of the cloud-based subscription service have continuous access to a growing library of information and resources that includes sample policies, training modules, and a monthly e-magazine with timely reminders and updates. Furthering the educational commitment to clients, the company's Senior Director of Education, Dr. Jill Brooks, regularly leads informative webinars, workshops and online CME courses covering various compliance centric topics. Sheba Vine, Senior Director of Regulatory Compliance, contributes professional knowledge of employment law to the team. Her articles are frequently sought after by national healthcare compliance publications. Most recently, her articles addressing marijuana laws were published in Compliance Today, Provider Magazine and The PAHCOM Journal.

"We're extremely proud to have the compliance subject expertise of Dr. Jill Brooks and Sheba Vine on our team. Access to the thought leadership, content knowledge and education they provide is consistently cited by our clients as providing tremendous value" commented Julie Sheppard, the founder and president of the company. "The healthcare compliance sector continues to grow with companies constantly entering the market. We are fortunate to have recognized the void in this market early on, and developed a unique solution that places education at the forefront of the offering." Sheppard continues, "the decision to differentiate our business through thought leadership and education has been validated by our extraordinary growth and excellent client loyalty."

Matt Georgov, Vice President of Choice MedWaste represents one of their many partners attesting to the value derived from the team's expert knowledge. He shares, "the value that First Healthcare Compliance adds to our medical waste services is unmatched. With lawyers and a physician on staff, they are always up to date with new regulations and appropriate training videos. We would recommend them to anyone looking for a healthcare focused training solution."
